

Support Association for the
Women of Afghanistan
PO Box 90, Flinders University Post
Office, Bedford Park SA 5042
www.sawa-australia.org

SAWA-Australia supports a high school for Afghan refugees in Rawalpindi, Pakistan, and a Vocational Training Centre for war widows in Kabul operated by the Organization for Promoting Afghan Women's Capabilities (OPAWC).

The Vocational Training Centre offers literacy, numeracy, child care and women's rights classes and runs training courses in handicraft production, carpet weaving and other income generating activities.

Help us to help the women of Afghanistan! Send a donation; become a member; spread the word!

Two women who studied at the Vocational Training Centre in 2009

Maryam Shamem

I want to write a few lines about the nature of the literacy course and about what I have achieved from it.

I have waited for a long time to become educated. It disturbed me in any meeting or party when there was an issue about education. I remembered once I received news that women can be paid who can teach the beginners, at that time I had nothing at home to feed my children, though I am a widow and responsible for the children, it was the hardest time, it was the time I find the need for education and said to my self: Oh my God! I hoped I was educated.

But that is about the past, now I am not that one any more, I have changed, I have become an educated woman, I can work as a teacher though I am a teacher at home, I teach my children. All these events come to me from OPAWC, they provide us with everything we need for the course, and they serve us and see how the teachers teach and how the course progresses.

I hope that this course will be continued so that I can learn more and become educated completely and able to work as a teacher in schools and solve the financial problems I am facing now.

Tuba Nesar Ahmad

When I was a small girl I lost my mother, so I was supposed to take care of all responsibilities in the house and to look after my younger brother and sisters. My father and my brother didn't let me go to school, this was the reason I remained illiterate. Soon I was married and had children. But one thing which always disturbed me was education, I was so interested and eager to become an educated woman. OPAWC's light flashed before my eyes, I became aware that a literacy course had been established near my house where I can fulfill my desire. Soon I went and entered my name among other women's names, I enquired about the rules and conditions, and felt that I can attend this course and learn and still look after my children at the same time.

Now about 7 months have passed and I have learned a lot, I am able to read and write and can help my children.

I am thankful to OPAWC for helping poor and forlorn women like me, and arrange every thing we need and ask OPAWC to continue this course and arrange similar activities for us, because I want to learn as I had been longing to do for a long time.

Tuba Nesar Ahmad

When I was a small girl I lost my mother, so I was supposed to take care of all responsibilities in the house and to look after my younger brother and sisters. My father and my brother didn't let me go to school, this was the reason I remained illiterate. Soon I was married and had children. But one thing which always disturbed me was education, I was so interested and eager to become an educated woman. OPAWC's light flashed before my eyes, I became aware that a literacy course had been established near my house where I can fulfill my desire. Soon I went and entered my name among other women's names, I enquired about the rules and conditions, and felt that I can attend this course and learn and still look after my children at the same time.

Now about 7 months have passed and I have learned a lot, I am able to read and write and can help my children.

I am thankful to OPAWC for helping poor and forlorn women like me, and arrange every thing we need and ask OPAWC to continue this course and arrange similar activities for us, because I want to learn as I had been longing to do for a long time.

I want to support / join SAWA.

Name:

Street:

Suburb/town:

State: post code:

Phone: Mobile:

Email:

My donation/membership fee: $_____

Mail to SAWA's postal address and check one:

I enclose a cheque;

I arranged direct bank transfer to SAWA, Bendigo Bank BSB 633-000, account 126035633

I subscribed online to SAWA's newsletter at www.sawa-australia.org/membership.html

Membership: $20, concession $10, student $5 / year.

I want to support / join SAWA.

Name:

Street:

Suburb/town:

State: post code:

Phone: Mobile:

Email:

My donation/membership fee: $_____

Mail to SAWA's postal address and check one:

I enclose a cheque;

I arranged direct bank transfer to SAWA, Bendigo Bank BSB 633-000, account 126035633

I subscribed online to SAWA's newsletter at www.sawa-australia.org/membership.html

Membership: $20, concession $10, student $5 / year.

Support Association for the
Women of Afghanistan
PO Box 90, Flinders University Post
Office, Bedford Park SA 5042
www.sawa-australia.org

Support Association for the
Women of Afghanistan
PO Box 90, Flinders University Post
Office, Bedford Park SA 5042
www.sawa-australia.org

SAWA-Australia supports a high school for Afghan refugees in Rawalpindi, Pakistan, and a Vocational Training Centre for war widows in Kabul operated by the Organization for Promoting Afghan Women's Capabilities (OPAWC).

The Vocational Training Centre offers literacy, numeracy, child care and women's rights classes and runs training courses in handicraft production, carpet weaving and other income generating activities.

Help us to help the women of Afghanistan! Send a donation; become a member; spread the word!

SAWA-Australia supports a high school for Afghan refugees in Rawalpindi, Pakistan, and a Vocational Training Centre for war widows in Kabul operated by the Organization for Promoting Afghan Women's Capabilities (OPAWC).

The Vocational Training Centre offers literacy, numeracy, child care and women's rights classes and runs training courses in handicraft production, carpet weaving and other income generating activities.

Help us to help the women of Afghanistan! Send a donation; become a member; spread the word!

Two women who studied at the Vocational Training Centre in 2009

Maryam Shamem

I want to write a few lines about the nature of the literacy course and about what I have achieved from it.

I have waited for a long time to become educated. It disturbed me in any meeting or party when there was an issue about education. I remembered once I received news that women can be paid who can teach the beginners, at that time I had nothing at home to feed my children, though I am a widow and responsible for the children, it was the hardest time, it was the time I find the need for education and said to my self: Oh my God! I hoped I was educated.

But that is about the past, now I am not that one any more, I have changed, I have become an educated woman, I can work as a teacher though I am a teacher at home, I teach my children. All these events come to me from OPAWC, they provide us with everything we need for the course, and they serve us and see how the teachers teach and how the course progresses.

I hope that this course will be continued so that I can learn more and become educated completely and able to work as a teacher in schools and solve the financial problems I am facing now.

Two women who studied at the Vocational Training Centre in 2009

Maryam Shamem

I want to write a few lines about the nature of the literacy course and about what I have achieved from it.

I have waited for a long time to become educated. It disturbed me in any meeting or party when there was an issue about education. I remembered once I received news that women can be paid who can teach the beginners, at that time I had nothing at home to feed my children, though I am a widow and responsible for the children, it was the hardest time, it was the time I find the need for education and said to my self: Oh my God! I hoped I was educated.

But that is about the past, now I am not that one any more, I have changed, I have become an educated woman, I can work as a teacher though I am a teacher at home, I teach my children. All these events come to me from OPAWC, they provide us with everything we need for the course, and they serve us and see how the teachers teach and how the course progresses.

I hope that this course will be continued so that I can learn more and become educated completely and able to work as a teacher in schools and solve the financial problems I am facing now.

Tuba Nesar Ahmad

When I was a small girl I lost my mother, so I was supposed to take care of all responsibilities in the house and to look after my younger brother and sisters. My father and my brother didn't let me go to school, this was the reason I remained illiterate. Soon I was married and had children. But one thing which always disturbed me was education, I was so interested and eager to become an educated woman. OPAWC's light flashed before my eyes, I became aware that a literacy course had been established near my house where I can fulfill my desire. Soon I went and entered my name among other women's names, I enquired about the rules and conditions, and felt that I can attend this course and learn and still look after my children at the same time.

Now about 7 months have passed and I have learned a lot, I am able to read and write and can help my children.

I am thankful to OPAWC for helping poor and forlorn women like me, and arrange every thing we need and ask OPAWC to continue this course and arrange similar activities for us, because I want to learn as I had been longing to do for a long time.

I want to support / join SAWA.

Name:

Street:

Suburb/town:

State:

post code:

Phone:

Mobile:

Email:

My donation/membership fee: $_____

Mail to SAWA's postal address and check one:

I enclose a cheque;

I arranged direct bank transfer to SAWA,
Bendigo Bank BSB 633-000, account 126035633

I subscribed online to SAWA's newsletter at www.sawa-australia.org/membership.html

Membership: $20, concession $10, student $5 / year.